LAYS DRY LAW AT DOOR OF PRESIDENT

PLAYING THE BABY GAME TRYING TO PASS THE BUCK

Secretary Ernest H. Cherrington Says If the President Would Bring His Full Power To bear the 18th Amendment and the Federal Law Will Be Absolutely Enforced—Somebody Has Fallen Down On the Job—A Number of People Are Sincere In Their Opposition To Prohibition Because We Are Not Doing Our Duty.

Prohibition enforcement is a "substantial success but not yet a complete success," Ernest H. Cherrington, secretary of the World League Against Alcohol, said Sunday at a mass meeting of the Anti-Saloon League convention held in Chicago.

"Federal enforcement," he continued, "is the responsibility of just one man, the president of the United States, as he is the only person (aside from the vice president) in the entire legislative and judicial department of the federal government who is directly elected by the people, and therefore responsible to the people."

"The president probably is the most powerful official in the world," Mr. Cherrington said. "Does anyone really believe that if the president were to proceed to bring his full power to bear, that the enforcement of the prohibition law could not be transformed in forty-eight hours?"

"When the temperance people of the United States come to the full realization of these facts, and when they arrive at the place where they are determined to hold to responsibility the directly responsible officials of the government, the eighteenth amendment and the federal law will be absolutely enforced."

"Vast numbers of our people do not agree with us and are sincere in their opposition to prohibition. We of the prohibition majority can discharge our obligation to that minority only by seeing that they be given the opportunity to know the truth. If this obligation is discharged, the prohibition majority will be better equipped to apply the same educational methods abroad where, as yet, liquor advocates constitute the majority."

"India and Africa are rapidly falling a prey to western liquor traffic. American breweries and distilleries are gaining a foothold in the coast cities of China and Malaysia. The influence of the total abstinence religion of these people is waning."

"Let the western liquor traffic once become thoroughly entrenched in the Mongolian nations of the east and a race conflict will be precipitated that will inevitably lead to universal war that will shake the foundations of this old world."

"Add to this the possibilities of the recently established vodka monopoly by the soviet and the breaking down of the policy of self determination in such countries as Iceland, Norway, Greenland, Sweden and Austria. The same international liquor interests have struck a terrific blow at prohibition in Canada."

"The strategic opportunity which America has for leadership in this world wide crusade grows less possible with every passing hour."

Leakage of bootleg alcohol in Philadelphia thru granting of permits to law-breakers by the commissioners of internal revenue has created Pennsylvania's most perplexing problem, Governor Gifford Pinchot said Sunday night at the convention.

Many cases of permits granted to bootleggers over protest of Pennsylvania officials were cited by the governor and blamed upon Prohibition Commissioner Haynes and Commissioner Blair of the internal revenue. In summing up, he said that fifty-three of the sixty-one alcohol permittees in Philadelphia were known law breakers but only fifteen of the fifty-three have been put out of business.

"The present era of the disrespect for law," he declared "can be laid right at the door of the conspicuous political leaders in Washington who set the example. The eighteenth amendment was betrayed in the house of its friends. They sowed the wind and the nation is reaping the whirlwind."

"When every allowance is made for every other cause, the fact remains that principal responsibility for the crime wave which afflicts this nation now rests squarely on the shoulders of those leaders in public and private life who were not good enough Americans to obey the constitution of their country."

"There is a defeatist movement like that in France which so nearly overthrew the allies in the World war, under full headway in the United States."

"I warn you before the winter is over you will hear loud claim that since the strongest possible effort is being made to enforce the law and since the alleged effort has failed the time has come for law and order to yield to the criminal. If that proposition is not treason, I have no name to call it."

COEDS PAY PENALTY

Coeds at the University of Cincinnati are punished in various ways when they disobey the rules laid down by the women's vigilance society. Patricia Ziske shared the automobile of an upper-class girl and paid for it by riding on a "kiddle car."

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION THE THEME

Most Interesting Meeting at Pontius United Brethren Church Sunday.

Sunday, November 8, was Rally day in the interests of Christian Education, held in the Pontius U. B. church and participated in by the following Sunday schools and three of our centralized schools.

St. Paul's Evangelical, Dresbach U. B., Morris and Pontius U. B., Carl Doebler of Washington centralized school, George McDowell, of Jackson A. F. Cameron of Pickaway. The superintendents of the public schools brought greetings which were expressive of hearty cooperation with the religious education of the young and in all things, reasonable open to help. The gathering filling the church, manifested interest in the subject and as this was the first of its kind in Pickaway county others following in the different parts of the county would bring about a better understanding and more cooperation.

Rev. E. E. Harris director of religious education for southeast Ohio conference was the speaker of the evening and brought to the attention of the church and Sunday school certain lines of teaching needed in this day.

Lives Year With Savage Tribe in West Siberia

Leningrad.—Mme. R. P. Mitsova, a plucky collaborator of the Russian Academy of Sciences, after 12 months' residence with a new race of people discovered in the arctic wilds of western Siberia, has collected much interesting information about these strange people, who are organized into five clans and number only about 600.

The members of this race call themselves "Neshen," which means merely men or people. Their nearest neighbors are the Samoyeds.

These strange people are quite unlike the Samoyeds in that they have very dark hair and complexions and their language is wholly different, lacking entirely the "R" sound, which is very prominent in the speech of the Samoyeds.

Until 1923, no civilized person had been known to have set foot in the territory of this new race, according to B. N. Gorodkov. He has just published a report of an expedition sent to western Siberia by the Russian Academy of Sciences in the latter part of 1923, which found these aborigines on the River Pura.

OPEN HOUSE SESSION BY FRATERNITY

Kappa Sigma Pi Boys Held Indoor Campfire at Methodist Church Friday.

The first degree Kappa Sigma Pi held an open house session in the social rooms of the First Methodist Episcopal church Friday night, November 6. The meeting was called to order by the chancellor and after the formal opening service a short business session was conducted. The chaplain then outlined some of the future programs.

The next part of the session was held around an indoor camp-fire. After several spirited songs George Gerhardt spoke on the subject "What I Expect to get out of Membership in the K. S. P." Elliott Barnhill spoke on the subject "What I got from the K. S. P. Initiation." Azel Laughlin used as his topic, "Success." Professor E. L. Daley discussed St. Paul's Education. Paul B. Reid told an interesting Ghost story. The chaplain then explained some of the things expected of K. S. P. fellows, after which membership cards were distributed. The camp fire closed with the singing of the doxology and the prayer circle.

A lunch was then served in the dining room under the direction of the commissary division. Several visitors were present and signed applications for membership.

The next regular meeting will be held Friday night at 7 o'clock. The organization is growing and the boys are taking a great interest in the work.

A girl from the city said that Holstein cows give both milk and cheese and another girl wrote that cod and herring are the two most important shell fishes.

This Tale of a Whale Is a Whale of a Tale

New York.—Passengers who arrived on the Italian liner President Wilson are responsible for this story:

Four days out from Lisbon, they said, a whale flirted with the ship, rolling its eyes and otherwise disporting itself.

Growing more affectionate, the mammal snuggled close to the boat, nudged the iron sides with its nose, and then, with a flippancy gesture of its tail, splashed away.

Passengers opined the whale had imbibed too deeply of bootleg liquor dumped off the rum boats.

ASPHYXIATION OR POISONING CAUSES DEATH

Five Women Are Found Dead Sunday in Hotel at Hibbing, Minnesota.

Five women, hotel employees at Hibbing, Minnesota, were found dead Sunday. They were victims either of poisoning or asphyxiation.

A gas jet, open in the kitchen of the cottage in which they were found, may have caused the deaths, altho a coroner's inquest has been called to determine if wine, found in five small glasses contained poison.

The dead: Mrs. Ellis Kusisto, 35 years old, owner of the cottage.

Mrs. Ida Hardy, 35 her tenant. Mary Herzzing, 35. Mrs. May Ermatinger, 35. Katherine Green, 25.

The bodies were found by Mrs. Kusisto's daughter, 9 years old, who summoned neighbors when she was unable to enter. The door was broken. The inquest will be conducted Monday.

Mrs. Ermatinger's body was lying in the bathroom doorway with the head in a basin. Resting upon her body was that of Mrs. Hardy. Near the gas stove was the body of Miss Herzzing, while that of Miss Green was near the center of the kitchen floor.

They evidently had been preparing a meal—food and crockery were upon the table—when death came suddenly. Mrs. Kusisto's body lay near the living room davenport, which she evidently had tried to reach.

Efforts to find Mr. Kusisto's husband, who is hunting somewhere in the north woods, failed Sunday. It is believed that possibly he knew of the plans of his wife and her friends.

Coroner Bullen, after surveying the scene, announced that it was unlikely that gas alone was responsible and declared that a thoro investigation would be made.

Altho the deaths at first were believed to have been caused by asphyxiation, police said that the wine may have contained poison or the vegetables and meat that were found and an inquest was ordered, which was started Monday.

Cellar Storage for Vegetables

Well Ventilated Basement
Is Satisfactory Place if Kept Cool.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

A cool, well ventilated, properly insulated cellar under the dwelling or outhouse is a satisfactory place to store vegetables for winter use. Cellars containing a furnace for heating the dwelling are usually too warm and too dry for the storage of root crops. In such cases a portion of the cellar can be partitioned off for storage purposes. Natural earth makes a better floor than concrete or brick, as a certain amount of moisture is desirable. If the cellar is square or rectangular, a storage room can be built in one corner. If it is in the shape of an ell, it is sometimes possible to partition off a storage room with one straight wall. Where more than one wall is constructed, they should be parallel with those of the cellar.

Plan for Storage Room.

Lay 2 by 4-inch scantling flat on the floor and fasten them with pegs driven into the floor or by nailing them to the top of short posts set in the ground. Set 2 by 4-inch studding from this sill to the ceiling, spacing them 16 inches apart from center to center. Locate the door to the storage room at the most convenient point, making it large enough to admit barrels, boxes, etc., a good size being 2½ feet by 6½ feet. Set the studs on either side of the door 32 inches apart, which will allow for the door and the frame. Put a header over the door, allowing 1 inch for the frame and seven-eighths of an inch for the sill at the bottom. Set the studs against the walls where the cellar walls and storage-room walls meet. Care in making the frame square and plumb will enable the builder to get the structure tight with a minimum of labor. A good room is made by covering the studding on the outside with tongue-and-groove material, but a better way is to sheathe the outside with plain lumber, tack building paper on this and side with tongue-and-groove material. This construction in connection with lath and plaster or wall-board on the inside makes an excellent room.

Regulate Temperature.

The temperature of the storage room can be regulated by means of outside windows. At least one window is necessary and two or more are desirable for light and ventilation. Two or more joints of 6-inch stove pipe with a damper and one elbow can be used to bring cool air from the outside to the bottom of the room. The pipe may be fitted into the window by removing one of the lower panes of glass and substituting a board in which has been cut a hole the size of the stovepipe. An outlet for the warm air in the storage room may be provided by removing an upper pane from the window and in its place fitting a small hinged door. This door, when opened, will allow the heated air to escape. Both the damper in the pipe and the hinged door in the window should be closed during cold weather. The windows in storage rooms should be darkened to protect the vegetables from the light.

Movable containers, such as barrels, crates and boxes, are preferable to built-in bins, as the former can be readily moved for cleaning. It is advisable to construct shelves or a flat floor to keep the containers off the ground, to insure a free circulation of air and to prevent the containers from harboring mice, rats, and other vermin. The shelves for canned goods along one side of the room need not be more than six inches wide.

Dairy Specialists Say Pint Not Always Pound

A pint is not a pound the world around, declare dairymen at New York State College of Agriculture at Ithaca. Even a pint of water weighs more than a pound, and milk is heavier than water. So that a literal interpretation of the old rule that a pint is a pound might mean the difference between profit and loss to a dairyman selling milk on a narrow margin.

The standard quart of milk of average composition weighs 2.153 pounds, and a 40-quart can of milk weighs 40 times 2.153, or 86.12 pounds.

In some plants where milk is bought by the can and later converted to a weight basis, 2½ pounds is used as the weight of a quart and a 40-quart can is credited at 85 pounds.

In no case, though, say the dairymen of the college, should anyone take the old adage at its face value, and accept payment for a 40-quart can of milk on the basis of 80 pounds for the full can.

Blanch Vegetables Well

Certain vegetables are highest in quality only if well blanched. Many gardeners neglect this practice, and consequently they market brownish sun-burned heads of cauliflower, green celery, and bitter endive. Blanching should be given careful attention by the home gardener who desires only quality vegetables.

Storage for Potatoes

Store the winter supply of potatoes in caves, cellars, or cool places where the temperatures can be kept below 40 degrees Fahrenheit. The best temperatures are between 34 degrees and 38 degrees, since less loss from shrinkage and dry rot occurs.

Mr. Fickardt.
Dear Sir:—
A few words in regard to your Poultry Drops. My flock had a sneezing cold that developed into Deadly Roup. After I began with your medicine I lost only a few birds which were badly infected, the sneezing in the rest of my flock began to disappear.

In a few weeks' time there was a great difference in my flock of 200 English Leghorn pullets; they began to develop and get red combs and wattles. I am sure Fickardt's Roup and Cholera Drops will help in egg production, for a healthy bird is bound to lay if it gets the proper feeds.

Yours respectfully Elmer Raber.

Prevention Is Better Than Cure.

Ashville O. R. No. 2, August 14, 1925.

Dear Mr. Fickardt:—

Mr. experience in the use of Fickardt's Roup and Cholera Drops has been more than satisfactory and since the time that I began to use it, years ago, I have never had an epidemic of any kind. No white diarrhea, gapes, roup, nor any of the diseases common to fowls.

Sincerely,
S. W. Cummins & Son.

LOANS up to $500

A worth-while economy effected in the City Loan plan of making popular loans is that no loss of time from work or duty is required to get a loan.

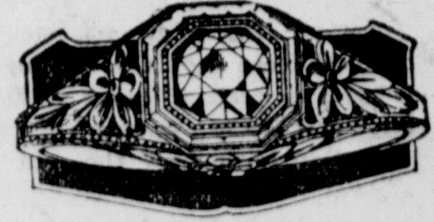

All details can be arranged by any member of the household—mother, wife, son or daughter—and the loan completed after work hours. Our office is kept open one night each week until eight o'clock for this very purpose. The saving of time in some cases is of no great consequence but in a great many instances time lost from work would amount to more than the entire cost of the loan.

PEOPLE OF OHIO ARE NOT SATISFIED

Want Tax System That Fairly Distributes the Burden.
REALTY NOT AFFECTED
Proposed Amendment Does Not Confer Power to Increase Tax Load on Property Now Returned for Taxation

Columbus—If the pending tax amendment to the constitution is adopted by the people of Ohio at the election November 3, neither this nor any other General Assembly will have any more power than the constitution now gives to increase the tax load on real and tangible personal property. This and succeeding Assemblies will, if this amendment is adopted, have real power to compel payment of taxes on intangible property now escaping taxation, but no general assembly, by any provision of this amendment, will ever be able to make real estate or buildings, or farm equipment, or horses, or hogs, or cattle, or sheep, or the manufacturers' tools and machinery, or raw or finished product bear more tax burden than they now bear.

Under the amendment this committee may recommend a change in the method of taxing automobiles but beyond that it will have no authority to recommend any measure that has to do with the taxation of other than money, mortgages, bonds, notes, book accounts, stocks, shares in building and loans, and other legal claims, demands, credits, or other intangible property.

Every citizen of Ohio should read the proposed amendment. Every newspaper in Ohio has a copy of it. This amendment, if adopted, will bring relief to every citizen who now pays taxes on intangibles and will enable the joint committee on economy and taxation to draft measures that will by their fairness bring to the tax duplicates the billions of dollars worth of intangibles on which their owners have been evading payment of taxes.

Since the day when individuals banded together for protection against a common enemy there has been some form of taxation. In the beginning there was no recognition of land ownership. Individuals and groups, or tribes, didn't remain long enough in one place to acquire land ownership. So the tax was levied on individuals. The individual surrendered a part of everything he owned or produced. If he had ten hogs government took one; if he had ten crocks of apple butter government took one.

To this day the system of taxation hasn't changed in any striking particular; we are still raising public revenues by levying on the visible possessions of the individual, clinging, as it were, to a system that does not recognize that there are forms of taxable property, equal to or greater than the visible possessions.

Ohio began as a state with a tax system that contemplated a levy on visible possessions, commonly referred to as real and tangible personal property. The total of real and tangible property of all kinds in this state has now reached in excess of eleven billions of dollars in tax value but there are probably in excess of ten billions of dollars in intangible property owned in Ohio which are not taxed at all.

In 1913 real estate in Ohio had a tax value of about four and a half billions of dollars and yielded about 65 per cent. of all general property tax revenues. In 1924 the tax value of real estate had jumped to over eight billions of dollars and this class of property was still yielding but slightly in excess of 65 per cent. of all general property tax revenues.

In 1913 tangible personal property—horses, hogs, sheep, cattle, farm produce and implements, tools and machinery—yielded about 27 per cent. of all tax revenues. In 1924 tax value of these classes of property had increased more than one billion of dollars and the tax revenue yield was 2 per cent. less than in 1913.

In 1913 intangible property returned for taxation yielded about 7 per cent. of the tax revenues and in 1924 intangibles yielded about 9 per cent., while at the same time ten billions of dollars worth of intangibles were going "scot free".

In 1924 county recorders reported to the Secretary of State mortgages, not including railroad mortgages, of the face value of over one billion dollars. In the same year there were returned for taxation in Ohio only three hundred and sixty million dollars of credits—and by credits is meant mortgages, notes, book accounts, stocks and shares in building and loans and other legal claims or demands.

The people of Ohio are not satisfied with the tax system they have; they want a system that will distribute the tax burden so that every class of property shall yield its fair share. This joint committee believes that such a system can be devised and is prepared to tackle the job of framing the necessary legislation, provided the people unfetter its hands by adopting the pending tax amendment at the election November 3.

HERO WHO DIED
Hurling Child From Train's Path Awarded Liberty's Prize.

The $1,000 weekly award which Liberty is paying for deeds of bravery goes to the parents of Nelson Anderson of West Carrollton, Ohio, according to the current issue of Liberty. Anderson, leader of an orchestra in Dayton, whose auto stalled on a railroad track, at first fled to safety, but returned to the car to save a young boy who could not make his escape. He kissed the lad, tossed him to safety—and just then Death came. The account of the deed of bravery is recited by W. S. Forman, staff investigator for Liberty Weekly, and written from statements of witnesses.

Anderson's parents say the award will be used to erect a monument over the grave in the cemetery at West Carrollton; and imbedded in the marble will be the Liberty gold medal, which, with the $1,000 cash, is awarded each week for some outstanding deed of heroism.

"Information concerning young Anderson's heroic deed came to Liberty from several sources," says Liberty. "For the best letter on the subject, $100 is awarded to Mr. J. W. Robson of the Dayton Daily News.

"Liberty is offering $1,000 reward and a gold medal each week for the most courageous deed that comes to its attention. If you know of anyone who has performed an act of bravery, write a letter to Liberty about it. Give names, addresses, dates and places, and tell what occurred. Liberty will send its representatives anywhere to check up the case and supply missing data.

"To the person who informs Liberty of the winning deed each week, $100 in cash will be paid. If more than one person writes about the same deed the $100 will be paid to the one who sends the best letter."

The time is passed when the measure of the value of a memorial is quantity. I hope the time has come when that measure is quality. I care not whether the material be marble or granite, its future will be measured by the character of the design. It is quality that has preserved for us the finest examples in painting and sculpture. It is quality that will stamp our imprint upon cemeteries of the future. Simplicity, correct lines and proportions and proper ornamentation are the real fundamentals. A design that is right, material that is lasting and perfect workmanship, spells success for the future of this industry and the beautification of the cemetery. Lightning Statistics

"Lightning is a gentleman and observes the rules of the Marquis of Queensberry. It won't strike a man when he's down," according to electrical engineers quoted in the bulletin of the Pennsylvania public service committee.

The possibilities are that a man standing directly under a storm cloud would be struck 15 times in 100 strokes, while a man flat on the ground would only once in a hundred strokes.

Two million volts of electricity, having characteristics of lightning, have been made by scientists for experimental purposes. Lightning has an average potential of about 100,000,000 volts, about a million times the voltage of house-lighting current.

"Nip" Unfledged Parrots

Travelers report only the most simple methods are employed in capturing parrots for sale in the forests of Brazil, the natives having learned wisdom and conservation of effort. They locate the nest of the parrot, visit it when the birds are only a few weeks old and deftly trim one wing to prevent the balance necessary for flight, the result being, when the birds are large enough to be salable they are unable to fly, one wing being lighter than it really ought to be, and it is a simple task to capture them.—Ohio State Journal.

AMUSEMENTS

Heralded as one of the finest pieces of modern literature turned out by any of the younger authors, "Proud Flesh" from the pen of Lawrence Sanders has been translated to the screen to King Vidor for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

The screen version of the remarkable novel, which is now being shown at the Met theater is accepted as one of the most powerful portrayals dealing with the San Francisco earthquake and fire and the subsequent recreation of that great city.

Eleanor Boardman plays the part of Fernanda, depicting a sophisticated, young woman of the world, whose culture fails to interfere when she meets Patrick O'Malley, played by Pat O'Malley. Harrison Ford portrays Don Jaime, a likeable member of the Spanish nobility.

MODERN ENOCH ARDEN
LOCATES HIS SONSReturns After 16 Years of Globe Trotting.

Huntington, Ind.—Hayden Webber, a modern Enoch Arden, who disappeared from his home at Fairfield, Ill., sixteen years ago, has succeeded after many months in locating three of his sons, Harley Webber, Huntington; Earl Webber, Fort Wayne, and Hayward Webber, Trinity Springs.

None of Webber's relatives had seen him since he walked from his home at Fairfield, Ill., in 1909, after disagreeing with his wife. Webber lost track of his family during his adventures and only through a chance conversation did he learn of the whereabouts of his sons. That brought him to the home of his sister, Mrs. E. B. Streseman, Huntington. Webber's father and mother reside near Andrews, Ind.

The wanderer's wife divorced him and remarried several years after his unceremonious departure.

Inflamed with anger Webber left his Fairfield home, bound for the far West. A tramp steamer set him down on a small island of the Hawaiian group. Once every six months a trans-Pacific liner stopped at Webber's island. This was the only connection with the outside world. In two years he had developed an attractive sugar plantation, literally hacking it out of the island wilderness. A syndicate bought it for more than Webber dreamed of receiving.

The far places called and Webber next appeared in Africa, where he sold supplies, worked for mining companies and speculated in various enterprises. His efforts increased his finances. Two years later he went to Brazil. Growing rubber proved profitable to him.

Finally his native land beckoned and he returned to the United States as the country went to war with Germany. For some time he worked aboard transports plying between Hoboken, N. J., and France. After the war he settled in Jackson, Tenn., becoming a building contractor.

He made several trips to Fairfield, Ill., in search of the members of his family, but his wife and sons were gone and there was no one there who knew where they were located. The boys were put in an orphanage after Webber departed and a few years later his wife remarried.

While conversing with a Jackson (Tenn.) barber Webber was told that the man knew a man of the same name at Huntington. This man turned out to be Harley Webber, son of Hayden Webber. The father went to Huntington and the sons joined him.

Will Shoot Prehistoric
Monster as His Proof

Victoria, B. C.—British Columbia is interested in a discussion whether creatures which lived in prehistoric times still exist in the southern interior of the province.

R. Leckie Ewing, an angler of the Okanagan lake region, has reported to John P. Babcock, deputy commissioner of fisheries, that long-necked, rough-skinned creatures, which he believes waddled across the surface of the earth long before man was heard of, are living in the depths of the lake. Mr. Leckie Ewing says he is preparing to go forth and give battle to the monsters. Armed with a rifle, it is his intention to shoot one of the creatures and tow it ashore as proof of his assertion.

Mr. Babcock's theory is that large sturgeon and not sea serpents are causing all the discussion. His idea, however, is treated with contempt by other men than Mr. Ewing, who say they have seen the terrifying monsters.

U. S. Produces Paper
From African Grass

Washington.—Paper made from esparto, an African wild grass, has been produced by the bureau of standards on a commercial basis and samples have been made available to American industry as a government test.

It has been only recently that esparto could be imported into this country at a cost permitting its commercial use.

The bureau's report shows that the imported grass pulp, after cleaning, gave a 60 per cent yield of paper-making fiber which produced paper stronger than the soda pulp product of this country.

PAGO PAGO MAKES
IDEAL NAVAL BASEPort of Heart of Extinct
Volcano Crater.

Washington.—Pago Pago, visited by United States naval vessels, on their return from Australia and New Zealand, is the capital of American Samoa, which is the only bit of American soil that lies south of the equator, according to the bulletin from the Washington headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"Pago Pago practically fell into the lap of a none too willing America, while various powers were seeking island territory in the Pacific," continues the bulletin; "but if the entire South seas had been combed, with all the other nations standing deferentially by, a better location for a naval base hardly could have been chosen. Most South Sea harbors are little more than crescent bays, protected by coral reefs, their safety largely dependent on the direction of the wind. At Pago Pago ships sail into the heart of a huge extinct volcano crater, only a narrow entrance open to the sea. Furthermore, there is a sharp turn inside, the whole harbor being shaped much like the ankle and foot of a stocking.

Beautiful as Well as Safe.

"The United States naval station is situated on the 'inset,' its back toward the sea, but with high mountains intervening. Pago Pago town lies at the 'toe.' Most of the anchorage is entirely out of sight of the sea, and the ships lie in deep placid water even when destructive gales are blowing outside.

"Giving Pago Pago the premier place among South Sea harbors does not do it justice. Many famous harbors are more commodious; but it is hardly too much to say that Pago Pago is at once one of the safest and most beautiful harbors in the world. A narrow strip of level land runs the harbor. Immediately beyond this strip the sides rise steeply to mountainous heights, the sloping walls covered with varying shades of green, tropical vegetation. In addition to the naval station and Pago Pago town, three or four villages nestle close to the water's edge around the harbor, their thatched huts half hidden by coconut palms.

"The harbor of Pago Pago almost cuts the island of Tutuila in two. This is the largest isle of American Samoa, 17 miles long and about five wide. The other American islands lie about sixty miles to the east. Only one, Tau, about five miles in diameter, is of importance, though two smaller isles are inhabited. Altogether the population of American Samoa is about 8,000, some 6,000 residing on Tutuila.

"American Samoa has been little spoiled by the civilization of the mother country, or that of other whites. Few whites reside in the islands besides the small group of missionaries and the officers, men and nurses at the naval station. Only one plantation is owned by a white man and only three or four whites have leaseholds. Practically the entire surface of the islands is owned in small tracts by individual natives. The United States even bought from individual landlords the 40 acres needed for its naval establishment.

"In the past the lava-lava, a sort of short skirt or kilt, was the only garment worn by both men and women. Now slight concessions are made. In Pago Pago or in the presence of whites the men add a sort of undershirt and the women a sort of jacket or smock. Among themselves, however, and in the outlying districts, the natives still let the lava-lava, tucked about the waist, serve in place of the white man's and white woman's more complex costume.

Natives Largely Self-Governing.

"In governmental matters, too, the United States has practiced laissez faire to an extent highly appreciated by the natives. The system employed so successfully by the Dutch in the East Indies has been adopted. An American naval officer stationed at the Pago Pago depot is appointed governor, but all officials under him actually exercising supervision over the natives are native hereditary chiefs. The islands are divided into three districts (ancient native divisions) with a native governor for each. Under the governors are chiefs of 'counties' (also ancient districts) and under the county chiefs are the village chiefs. The village chiefs have councils composed of the heads of families.

"The United States practices a certain measure of paternalism over its South Sea island wards. Copra, the dried meat of coconuts, is practically the only article of export. The government handles this crop for the natives, so assuring them a fair price. Free medical attention is furnished through naval medical officers, dentists, nurses and hospital corps men. The health of the Samoans is excellent and their numbers are increasing. During the 21 years of American control the population has grown 41 per cent."

Pound Almost Zoo

Paris.—The Paris poundmaster's report shows the city really could qualify as a Noah's Ark. In the last two years the pound has collected 14 horses, seven bulls, five donkeys, six hogs, nine sheep, 14 rabbits, 15 chickens, 27 pet birds, three turtles, 21 white rats, one mongoose and one Caucasian bear. It also housed for a while an entire menagerie abandoned by a bankrupt animal trainer.

NEWSPAPERS
HELPFUL ON
FARM CHANGEPublication Leads to Sixty-three Per Cent of The Improved Practices.

Newspapers, as much as any other agency, have been responsible for more than half of the improved practices adopted by farmers in the past few years.

Backing for this statement comes to the Ohio State university from Dr. C. B. Smith, chief of the office of co-operative extension work in the federal department of agriculture. Dr. Smith bases his statement on surveys made in several states.

In making these surveys men traveled either on foot or by auto along the highways, going from 300 to 1000 miles to cross the states involved, making inquiry of every farmer on each side of the road and checking a list of those who subscribed to papers.

Back in 1912 the survey showed that 66 per cent of the farmers were taking a farm paper. By 1919 this figure stood at 75 per cent. And 79 per cent of the farmers, it was discovered in the 1919 survey, were taking a daily paper.

In 1923 and 1924 surveys in four states showed that 63 per cent of the improved farming of home practices adopted by farmers or their wives traced back directly to various publicity mediums, with the newspapers, daily and weekly, in the majority.

The newspapers and farm papers did this by publishing the findings of successful farmers of the state experiment stations, the agricultural colleges, the county extension agents, and the federal department of agriculture.

Mr. Shaw's Invitation

The journalist who can get an interview with Mr. George Bernard Shaw may consider himself lucky, says the London Tatler, for the dramatist has the greatest dislike to being interviewed.

Some time ago a certain young journalist wrote to Mr. Shaw asking for an appointment, and to his great delight, after waiting for some days, he received the following reply late in the afternoon: "Certainly. Drop in and dine with me tonight.—George Bernard Shaw."

The journalist was congratulating himself on his luck when, happening to glance at the envelope, he found to his dismay that the stamp bore the postmark of a remote little town on the Continent. Mr. Shaw had been joking again.

MAKE CHILDHOOD SWEET

Wait not till the little hands are at rest
Ere you fill them full of flowers;
Wait not for the crowning tuberoses
To make sweet the last sad hours;
But while in the busy household band
Your darlings still need your guiding hand
Oh fill their lives with sweetness!

Wait not till the little hearts are still
For the loving look of praise;
But while you gently chide a fault,
The good deed kindly praise.
The word you would speak beside the bier
Falls sweeter far on the living ear;
Oh fill young lives with sweetness!

Oh, what are kisses on clay-cold lips
To the rosy mouth we press,
When our wee one flies to her mother's arms
For love's tenderest caress!
Let never a wordly babble keep
Your heart from the joy each day should reap,
Circling your young lives with sweetness.

Give thanks each morn for the sturdy boys,
Give thanks for the fairy girls;
With a dower of wealth like this at home
Would you rifle the earth for pearls?
Wait not for Death to gem Love's crown,
But daily shower life's blessings down
And fill young hearts with sweetness.

Remember the homes where the light has fled,
Where the rose has faded away
And the love that glows in youthful hearts,
Oh, cherish it while you may!
And make your home a garden of flowers,
Where joy shall bloom thru childhood's hours,
And fill young hearts with sweetness.

A System of Farming That Brings Health and Prosperity

Every farm, regardless of the method of farming practiced or of the crops raised, should have at least a few good milch cows to provide

- (1) Enough milk, cream and butter for home use;
- (2) Enough skim-milk to raise some calves, pigs and chickens;
- (3) Enough cream or butter to sell to pay, in part or entirely, current living expenses.

This plan has been a "life-saver" for thousands of farmers, especially during the hard times of the past two years. It insures a living, at least, and often other income besides.

Such a plan pays best with a De Laval Cream Separator. It soon pays for itself—and skims cleaner, lasts longer and is easier to operate and clean than any other.

THIRTY YEAR GROWTH OF HAIR HAS BEEN SHORN.

More than 30 years ago, W. S. Clark, aged 80, a Civil war veteran of Smith Center, Kansas, made a vow that he would not have his hair cut until William Jennings Bryan was in the president's chair. The recent death of the commoner, however, weakened his resolve and Saturday a barber cut the hair that hung about Mr. Clark's waist.

DRY SEED CORN WITHSTAND THE COLD WEATHER

Is Native of a Warmer Climate and Requires Man's Watchful Care.

Freezing injury to seed corn depends upon the length to time it is exposed to cold and to its moisture content as well as to low temperature.

In tests at the Ohio Experiment Station it was found that seed corn on average about 28 per cent moisture on the stand a temperature as low as 16 degrees for more than 10 hours without injury, while corn containing only 20 per cent water will stand this temperature a whole day.

As the corn becomes dryer than 20 per cent moisture, it was found that the effect of both cold and long exposure diminishes rapidly.

At the Ohio Station, well adapted field corn contains as a yearly average about 28 per cent moisture on the first of November. Late corn averages about 6 per cent more moisture at that time and its germination would be endangered by the severe freezing such as occurred in October this year.

Corn is native to a much warmer climate than Ohio and in spite of long cultivation in the north, still requires man's care to preserve the seed in a viable condition. This may be easily done by growing adapted varieties, selecting seed early, and storing it in a warm, airy, dry place.

NONAGENARIAN

Jesse A. Jones Passed Away at Home of Daughter—Funeral Tuesday.

Jesse A. Jones was the son of Joseph and Mary Dickey Jones. He was born in Bedford county, Virginia, August 25, 1836, and died November 8, 1925.

When he was four years old his parents emigrated to Ross county, Ohio, where they lived two years and then emigrated to Iowa, both trips being made in covered wagons. When he was 16 years of age Mr. Jones returned to Ohio, where he had lived ever since, nearly all of the time being spent in Circleville. He was formerly a packet agent for the Ohio canal, and later was a coal merchant.

In November, 1880, he was married to Miss Elizabeth Try, who died September 16, 1889. He is survived by his only child, Mary, wife of Dr. Blenn R. Bales, with whom he made his home and by two grandchildren, Mrs. Barton Demig, of Cleveland and Blenn D. Bales of this city.

Mr. Jones was one of a large family, all of whom lived in the west. Two brothers are still living.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday afternoon from the home of Dr. Bales at 2 o'clock. Rev. E. K. Johnson officiating. Burial in Forest cemetery.

Please omit flowers.

THINKS MANKIND IS TOO HARD ON FOX

"And Sampson went out and caught 300 foxes, and took firebrands and turned tail to tail and put a firebrand in the midst of two tails. And when he had set the brands on fire he let them go into the standing corn of the Philistines." And ever since mankind has been practicing cruelty toward this little animal. It has been accused of every crime imaginable, from stealing poultry to stealing lambs and pigs, and even calves. It will occasionally carry off a hen or a duck, but this only occurs when there are young foxes and other food is scarce, observes the Minneapolis News. For every head of poultry the fox kills it pays in the amount of field mice, moles and destructive rodents killed. Let a farmer from any cause whatever lose a hen or duck and a fox drive is ordered and men and women and children gather from far and near and every fox that is unfortunate enough to be caught in the circle of the howling mob is clubbed to death.

To that class of people that are always thirsting for the blood of some poor wild creature I would say, get a McGuffey's fourth reader and read the "Morning's Ramble." I say give poor Reynard a chance.

The AMERICAN LEGION

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

VIRGINIA ELECTS WRAY COMMANDER

When war broke out in 1917, Francis Marion Wray, newly elected commander of the Virginia department of the American Legion, was attending the University of Virginia. He put aside his law books and entered the first officers' training camp at Fort Myer. Receiving a commission as first lieutenant, he went overseas with the Eighty-third division in 1918.

Transferred to the Third division of the regular army, Commander Wray was with this outfit in the St. Mihiel and Meuse-Argonne offensives. Here he received a promotion to a captaincy and two citations for gallantry in action.

After the armistice, the new commander was with the Army of Occupation. He returned to the University of Virginia in 1919 and received his law degree there in 1921. Locating at Berryville, he began the practice of law.

Mr. Wray has been an indefatigable worker in the Legion ever since its organization. His comrades in Lloyd Williams post No. 41 at Berryville give him credit for much of the effectiveness of Legion work in that community and district.

Mr. Wray had just been elected commander of his post when he was elevated to the department commandership at the state convention at Staunton. He succeeds his friend and college mate, Thomas J. Michie, Jr., of Charlottesville.

Commander Wray was born at Martinsville, Va., 34 years ago. He graduated from Martinsville high school and then attended Randolph-Macon college. After the completion of his course there, Mr. Wray began the study of law at the University of Virginia which he postponed for various and sundry reasons involved in the events of the stormy days of 1917-1918.

First Department to Remit Dues for 1926

The department of Minnesota of the American Legion is the first department of the veterans' organization to remit 1926 membership dues. It was announced at national headquarters of the Legion at Indianapolis by National Adjutant James F. Barton.

On August 26, 1925, Barton received a letter from department officials of Minnesota in which was enclosed a check for $158 in payment of national dues for the year 1926 for 95 members of Lindstrom post No. 83, Lindstrom, Minn., and for 63 members of Carol O. Potter post No. 135, Hector, Minn.

"We should be glad to know if we are the first department to have remitted dues for the year 1926," wrote L. A. Brandenburg, assistant department treasurer.

"You are without doubt easily first," wrote Glenn Crawford, national auditor, in reply.

Illinois was the first department to remit 1925 dues. That department sent in the 1925 dues of 14 members on October 8, 1924.

Urges Legionnaires to Take Up Land in Utah

Father Paul Renfels, a resident priest of Vernal, Utah, believed that American Legionnaires would make good homesteaders. In support of that belief he is heading a movement urging American Legionnaires of the country who are crowded in their present abode to go to the great Utah basin of northeastern Utah and homestead.

The Utah basin in Utah and Duchesne counties comprises 500,000 acres of grazing and agricultural lands.

Father Renfels' interest in the movement is purely altruistic. He represents no land company nor any special group; he has seen an opportunity to acquaint veterans with the way to "the great open spaces."

He declared recently: "There are plenty of these wide open spaces in the Utah basin and, men, there's lots of fine trout fishing most any place in the basin."

FARM TAXES HIGHER THAN FARM PRICES

Township in Each County is Selected in Making a Recent Survey.

That farm taxes in terms of farm prices have been exceptionally high since 1921 is brought out in a study of the tax and price by O. M. Johnson in the November Bimonthly Bulletin of the Ohio Experiment Station.

Due to high war prices in 1917 to 1920 taxes in terms of farm prices were only 70 to 93 per cent. From 1921 to 1924 with lower prices and higher tax rates, farm taxes in terms of farm prices ranged from 162 to 175 percentage, or about twice as high as in the preceding four years.

Professor Johnson has prepared a table of index numbers of farmers' taxes which shows the relative amount paid each year from 1880 to 1924, using 1913 as the basal year, or 100 per cent. The table shows a range from 60 in 1880 to 232.4 in 1924. Farm prices for the same period were the lowest, 54.6 in 1896 and the highest, 218, in 1918.

In preparing the table a single township was selected in each county. The taxes were calculated for these townships. This gave the taxes on given areas of farm land scattered all over the state. This gives a fair basis on which to compare farm taxes and prices. It measures the real tax burden from year to year by taking into consideration the farmers' ability to pay.

HOUSEHOLD NOTES

Baked Fish Dishes.

Far-sighted housewives will take advantage of Canned Foods Week to lay in a case of sea foods. Fresh fish is often difficult to secure, in some places impossible. Canned fish is always fresh if used as soon as taken from the can, and a shelf of canned fish saves many an emergency trip to the butcher's in bad weather. Fish provides substantial salads, or can be creamed and served on toast, combined with creamed canned vegetables. Salmon, tuna, and some other varieties can be formed into meat loaves, baked and served hot, or sliced cold. And any ingenious housewife can concoct baked souffles from the twenty-eight varieties of canned fish and shellfish.

Baked Fish Croquettes.

Take a No. 2 size can of lobster, crab or salmon, flake very fine and add to a white sauce made of a tablespoon of margarine, two of flour, and a cup of milk. Season highly then stir in a cup of bread crumbs. Cool, then bake into croquettes, place on well-greased pans and bake in a hot oven. Serve with tomato sauce, or with canned tomato soup heated but not diluted.

Date Custard.

There are many nourishing and appetizing desserts that can be baked in a short time. Here is a recipe for date custard. The dates can be bought in cans as well as packages and the canned product can be kept unopened without danger of worms. Beat three eggs slightly, add a third cup of sugar and salt, then pour over them two and a half cups of scalded milk, beating while pouring. Turn into buttered baking dish, lay in a cup of dates, stoned and quartered, and cook in moderate oven till set.

Inability to Translate

I know not how it is that we need an interpreter, but the great majority of men seem to be mutes, who have not yet come into possession of their own, or mutes, who cannot report the conversation they have had with Nature. There is no man who does not anticipate a supersensual utility in the sun and stars, earth and water. These stand and wait to render him a peculiar service. But there is some obstruction or some excess of phlegm in our constitution which does not suffer them to yield the due effect. Too feeble fall the impressions of Nature on us to make us artists. Every touch should thrill.—Emerson.

PAYING TRIBUTE.

Now a pedantic philosopher proposes to pay an annuity of $5,000 to $10,000 a year to the crooks of America and secure their retirement from their professional activities. He insists that the country would be ahead on the deal. Fewer policemen and jails would be needed and the courts would have time for civic business. Such a suggestion is an insult to the American's moral sense. The country will never pay blackmail or compromise with crime.—Los Angeles Times.

RED CROSS AID TO VETS MOUNTING

Heavier Demands for War Service Laid to New Legislation Granting Wide Benefits.

ACTIVE FORCES AIDED ALSO

Duty to Ex-Service and Service Men First Responsibility of the Red Cross.

A marked increase in the service given by the American Red Cross to ex-service men, through Chapters, hospitals, Government and Red Cross offices during the past year, and which volume is expected to be maintained during most of the fiscal year ending June 30, 1926, is shown in the reports of the war service activities of the organization, just completed.

Service to the disabled and to men now in active service continued to be one of the primary obligations of the Red Cross. The increased activities in this regard were attributed largely to the legislation giving new benefits to ex-service men.

The keystone of the Red Cross service lies in the Home Service work of the chapters to veterans and men still in service. At the close of the fiscal year June 30, 1925, 2,591 Chapters were active in this work and had expended approximately $2,237,000.

Included in their work was assistance to ex-service men in making out adjusted compensation papers, in the handling of claims reopened, or made possible under liberalized terms of the World War Veterans' Act of 1924; and in many other ways.

An unusual amount of legislation passed by Congress and State bodies has necessitated the issue of much new material in the past year. Legislation was passed during the year liberalizing conditions applying to hospitalization, compensation and other benefits under the Veterans' Bureau; this in turn has entailed reopening of many claims formerly disallowed, filing of many new ones, and many applications for hospitalization. The Claims Service at National Headquarters this year handled 17,506 in comparison with 12,010 cases the previous year.

Increased service to men in hospitals was noted, as well in the number of hospitals in which service was maintained by the organization. Due to new legislation an increase of over 6,000 patients were admitted for hospitalization, a new peak approximating that of March 1922. Since a large number of this group includes patients not eligible for compensation, the solution of their personal and family problems has involved careful study by the National Organization.

There are 30,000 disabled ex-service men in Government hospitals every day of the year, and their need has directly led to a revival of the best-known and perhaps most popular activity the Red Cross sponsored in war—a new campaign for knitted "Red Cross sweaters." These articles are among the few not furnished by the Government.

For the men still on active duty in the Army, Navy and Marines, the Red Cross during the year maintained Field Directors at all important stations, camps, and hospitals of these armed forces of the country.

A monthly average of 96,931 service and ex-service men were aided by the Red Cross during the year.

The man in service, and the man who has served his country are among the primary responsibilities for which the American Red Cross is chartered by Congress. Nevertheless it has many other obligations and it is on this basis that an appeal will be made for a larger enrollment than ever during the Annual Roll Call, Armistice Day, November 11, to November 23.

Good Old Mother Earth Likened to Music Box

Underground radio has been heard across the continent. Transmission has been made from underground cables and it is asserted that the earth crust is a more effective medium for sending radio messages than is the air.

The philosophers of old used to believe that the planets and the sun made music as they rolled. They called it the music of the spheres. Once again, as often in the past, fact may outdo fancy if the earth becomes resonant with radio songs and messages. Then indeed it would be a musical sphere, asserts the Minneapolis Journal.

Marvelous as this possibility appears, it is not inconsistent with what is known about radio and the earth. For this old globe is not the thickly solid affair that many of us imagine. Earthquakes cause undulations in the world's structure that travel for miles and are read and interpreted by scientists far distant from the scenes of disturbance. In its mountains and valleys, in the rising and falling of its surface the earth shows that it is not unfriendly to undulation. Instead of being solid and stolid, the earth is in reality plastic and much given to rhythm of various kinds. It lends itself to marvelous transformations and transmutations, such as flower-beauty issuing from muck and mire, heat from rocks and radiant energy from its flaming heart.

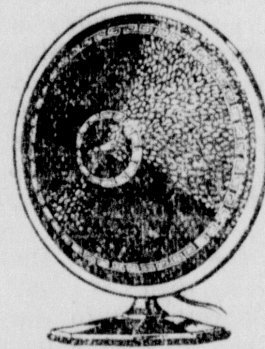

Radio messages going through the earth are not more wonderful than these same messages going through the air and through brick and stone walls on the way.

IMMENSE HYDRO-ELECTRIC PROJECT

Chicago, Nov. 6.—(UP.)—A $5,000,000 hydro-electric project on the Androscoggin River, is part of a plan to hydro-electrify New York and New England, it was announced today by the Insull Interests. The dam will be 2,700 feet long and 50 feet high. The lake behind it will extend up the river over nine miles, and will hold back a billion cubic feet of water.

Three 9,000 horse-power units will be installed and provision made for a fourth, so that the maximum capacity will be 36,000 horse-power.

Coupled with the announcement of the erection of the dam was the statement that a contract has already been awarded for the building of a string of five power unit plants in the vicinity of Hillsboro, N. H.

It is estimated that this project will cost $3,000,000 and will take five years to complete. The output of the five plants will be 43,000,000 kilowatt hours per year.

These projects will unite the New England interests of the middle-west utilities.

Many Ways to Use Velvet in Outfit

No Hard-and-Fast Rule for Treatment of Popular Material.

There are countless ways in which velvet is being used, and as many styles of combining velvet with other materials. It is a most grateful fabric to handle, notes a fashion correspondent in the New York Times, for it makes effective contrast with any one of many other goods. It makes more important a woolen finish, embellishes satin and is shown in novel partnership with lame, with the splendid Bianchini fabrics, with chiffon, and in some particularly smart models is trimmed with gilt leather, with jet, metal beads, brilliants, or is ornamented with needlework done in bright-colored crewels. There is no hard-and-fast rule for the treatment of velvet. It is a matter of individual creative ability. The point of significance is that the gown, or wrap, or hat become the wearer, and in wearing velvet every woman presents herself most flatteringly. The period gown, the simple tight bodice with long, full skirt, is tremendously picturesque in velvet, in black or color, or requires no trimming. A quaint effect is given by adding a bertha of fine lace to one of these old-style velvet gowns, a costume that is becoming to every type of beauty and to women of every age.

Altogether, velvet, in innumerable ways and in varied technique, is contributing an element of great importance to the season. It is a boon and joy to many because of its possibilities even in the hands of an amateur. A band of wide velvet ribbon will form a rich trimming for the skirt of chiffon, or taffeta dress, to be repeated in the bodice. Velvet shoulder straps as they are shown in a jeune fille frock of chiffon; ties of velvet ribbon looped at the back of a high-cut bodice; a belt, wristbands and occasional straps are familiar ways of giving chic to an otherwise uninteresting frock.

Importance of Colors in Fashions of Season

The importance of color as an integral part of fashion is emphasized from week to week in the new models. While black is more extensively used than last season, nevertheless a conspicuous place is accorded certain new shades.

At the moment the tendency is toward lovely soft tones of brown and fawn, rich reds ranging from a dark bois de rose tint to the deeper shade of burgundy; greens of the hunter and bottle family and a range of blues that in intensity differ from anything seen in other years.

A new shade on the order of mulberry, called Black Prince, comes in for much attention. It is interesting and smart, but rather old. This may prevent its general adoption by the younger element, although it appears in costumes designed for youthful wearers.

With the vogue for blues one notices an awakened interest in gray furs, which combine so well with these tones and in the new coats introduced for fall kimmer is used to trim models fashioned of velvet or the new light woolens with a velvety surface.

Pink Dance Frock

A fascinating dance frock is of geranium pink chiffon with the waist embroidered in brilliants. Some of the brilliants are scattered over the skirt and a broad band of ostrich feathers trims the bottom of the skirt, which has a slight upward flare in front.

Pretty Lingerie

New lingerie that is lovely enough for any trousseau is made of a rather deep shade of pink crepe de chine. The neck is composed of alternate rows of narrow real valenciennes with exquisite rows of hand embroidery in the same shade as the silk.

Heat with Distinction

At last it is proved that a home heater can be good looking—ornamental, if you will—as well as a practical heat-producing utility.

The Mueller Furnacette marks the greatest advance in home heating equipment since the invention of the heating stove. It is the joint creation of master furniture designers and skilled heating engineers. There is distinction in every line of its well-balanced, walnut-grained, vitreous enamel cabinet.

And as for heat—never was there an above-floor heater of any kind that could compare with the Furnacette in heating efficiency! It heats the whole house by continuously re-circulating warm, moist air thru all the rooms. It provides more comfortable, more uniform heat than two or three stoves combined, yet uses no more fuel than an ordinary heating stove.

HARTMAN THEATER.

Unquestionably the most important musical event of this or any other season is the engagement of the Messrs. Shubert's unparalleled success, "The Student Prince" which will be seen for one week only at the Hartman theater, Columbus, commencing next Monday evening at 8:10 sharp. According to authentic reports from both press and public the Messrs. Shubert's have out done themselves in the production of this charming story of "Old Heidelberg." They have not only selected the best cast of concert artists, but they selected their famous male chorus of sixty voices from 500 applicants from the leading music colleges of America as they did the pretty golden voiced female chorus. The beautiful music having been written by Sigmund Romberg, America's foremost writer, it requires trained voices to properly render it, and experienced musicians to play it. That is the reason the special symphony orchestra is part of the organization which numbers 125 people in all traveling in a special "Student Prince" train of seven cars. "The Student Prince" is still playing in New York, Boston and Chicago where it has turned people away for more than a year. The company to be seen here is a "special" company and is probably the pet company of the Shuberts, and after playing in this city will go to St. Louis for a five weeks engagement.

According to a close check-up kept on the people attending this marvelous light opera, many people have witnessed the performances two and three times which alone is an assurance that it must be a most unusual and fascinating operetta. It is a production that will live forever in the memory of lovers of good music, a wholesome story and costuming that is unsurpassed, owing to the length of the performance and to allow the out-to-town people to catch their train or cars, the curtain will rise promptly at 8:10 evenings and at 2:15 for the Wednesday and Saturday matinees. You cannot afford to miss this wonderful attraction.

WHEN LOVE CAME IN.

When Love came in the Poverty Place
The light shone bright in the beggar's face;
He heard the bells of Morning ringing,
A bird on a withered branch was singing.
The crumbless table at last was spread
A radiant guest in the darkened door,
And Pain and Poverty moaned no more.

For Love is Life
And peace in strife,—
Love is the bread of life.

A holier heaven and earth I knew
When Love came in where I dreamed of you;
Never a shadow in stormless skies
Flowers for thorn-wounds with answered prayers
And life knew never a rain of tears.
Only the light of the living day
Where Love kissed shadows and tears away.

For Love is Life—
Heaven's peace and strife,—
Love is the bread of life.

Statesman Makes Fight on Public Gambling

Senor Adolfo Dickmann, a leading socialist deputy, seeks to suppress horse racing, the national lottery, and all other forms of gambling in Argentina. He has introduced a bill in congress with that end in view. Horse racing in Buenos Aires is maintained by the wealthy and exclusive Jockey club, an important factor in the political and social life of the community. Senor Dickmann asserts that those who really benefit from racing in Argentina are the breeders of the race horse. Such horses, he maintains, are of no economic value, while betting on the races impoverishes the workers who patronize the tracks. Betting last year reached the grand total of $130,000,000. The Argentine lottery, Senor Dickmann holds, is a sop to the poor, and he explodes some archaic theories of the benefits to the state and charitable institutions from the division of the lottery spoils. He presents figures to show that since the lottery was founded in 1896 the Argentine people have paid 1,100,000,000 pesos in trying to win prizes, while less than 125,000,000 pesos have been received by charitable institutions, which, he asserts are now "devoting their time to caring for deluded persons impoverished by trying to win lottery prizes."

Man With "Glass" Voice Wins Town Crier Title

London.—The musical tones of the voice of J. Anderson, town crier of Aberriider, Glamorganshire, Wales, has won him the British town criers' championship, even though his voice could not be heard seven miles away, as could some of the bellowing.

All day scores of variations of "Oyez, oyez, oyez" carried into the hills. But the judges disregarded distance qualification when they heard Anderson's voice, described as "like the tinkle of glass amplified 10,000 times."

Anderson earns a half crown for each 16 times he exercises his throat.
